1. "The Bulgarian industrial center at Dimitrovgrad employs 280" experts

Among these experts there are 40 engineers. The remaining are technicians and other specialists. They receive very high salaries: technicians get 80,000 lei per month, and engineers from 180,000 to 200,000 lei per month.

"They enjoy special privileges. They have a separate bakery, which bakes white bread. They have separate shops where they get all possible food-stuffs and other commodities at low prices, without any restrictions. Some of the specialists brought their wives from the USSR. They live,

3. "On Sundays and days free from work they drink continually. In relations with the local population they are rather good-hearted and courteous. They try to make contacts with them, which however is difficult because of language differences."

as do other Soviet specialists, in separate houses built for them.
